

Privacy Policy

The personal information collected on the website will be treated confidentially and dealt with in accordance with this Privacy Statement and the website's Terms and Conditions of Use.

If you follow a link to another website this privacy statement will not apply. You are advised to check the privacy policy of the website in question.

Any personal data you provide to us will be used by us to deal with any enquiry you make through the website and to provide any services which you ask us to provide. We may also add your details to our database.

We may use cookies to store session information while users are browsing the website. We may also use cookies at our discretion to enable more accurate reporting of site usage data, such as new visitors, unique visitors and returning visitors. The data stored in the cookie for usage tracking is a randomly generated identifier and does not identify you personally.

Please note that we cannot guarantee that any email sent from you to us will be received by us or that its contents are or will remain secure during or following transmission. Likewise we cannot guarantee that emails sent by us to you are secure. If you have any concerns about the security of email transmissions to or from us, you may prefer to telephone or write to us instead.

We respect your right to privacy and treat our obligations under the Data Protection Act 1998 ("the Act") very seriously. We will keep your personal information confidential except to the extent that it is necessary to disclose it by law or to comply with a regulatory or legal process or where we need to disclose the information to provide a product or service that you have requested.